State Traffic Toll Reaches 18

Indiana chalked up a weekend traffic death toll of 18 today, including five Chicagoans killed in a single wreck, and State Police said it was the worst weekend of highway slaughter in 15 months.

The last time that many were killed on Indiana streets and highways was a 54 hour period beginning May 13, 1955. Sixteen have died during the two week-end this year.

The worst wreck came Saturday when two cars collided head-on in front of the Dunes State Police barracks on U. S. 20 near Chesterton. Killed were Thomas Sullivan, 62; his wife, Mary; a daughter, Mary Jo, Matthew Carmody, and his wife, Delores.

CHAS. SKILLEN KEEPS JOB AS DEMO CHAIRMAN

ENDORSED BY INDIANA
EDITORS AT MEETING
IN FRENCH LICK

FRENCH LICK (UP) — Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler says Indiana is not one of the "20 crucial states" most likely to swing to Adlai E. Stevenson in the November presidential election.

But Butler said chances were "very good" that Stevenson will campaign in Indiana and his running mate, Estes Kefauver, almost certainly will.

He outlined campaign plans for newsmen here Saturday night after the 76th annual meeting of the Indiana Democratic Editorial Assn.

The meeting produced an endorsement of Charles Skillen as state chairman and a stepped up campaign to please the governor nominee, Ralph Tucker.

Tucker discarded any thought of trying to remove Skillen, and said he had "confidence" in Skillen's leadership.

Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams, the headline speaker, accused the Eisenhower Administration of following "special interest" doctrines.

Butler, South Bend, said the margin of victory could come in the nine states Stevenson carried in 1952 plus "20 crucial states" where he has a good chance of winning. Indiana is "just outside" the list of 20, Butler said.

Sen. Daniel Wins Texas Balloting

Political observers said the election may be a guide post to how the state will vote in the presidential election in November.

Ike Speeds Up Campaign Plans

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UP) — President Eisenhower, contrary to most opinion, will start slugging at the Democrats about the middle of next month.

Mr. Eisenhower had been expected to withhold his heavy political firepower until sometime in October, but according to his press secretary, James C. Hagerly, the chief executive will make his move about Sept. 15.

Mr. Eisenhower was expected to remain here at least until Wednesday morning and fly back to Washington for a quick series of conferences with top GOP political chieftains, then leave for a weekend at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm Friday.

His first major campaign speech probably will be about Labor Day, Sept. 3. Whether the speech is made from Washington remains to be announced.

ARTHUR COMES HOME

NEW YORK, (UP)—Playwright Arthur Miller, husband of actress Marilyn Monroe, arrived by plane from London today to visit his two children by his first marriage.

After stepping off a plane, the pipe-smoking author said he expected to remain in this country from 10 days to two weeks.

He said he does not expect the U. S. Department of Justice to take any action against him during his brief stay. He had been cited for contempt prior to his trip to London for refusing to answer certain questions of the House Un-American Activities Committee. The committee had asked Miller to name alleged Communist associates and he himself of the contempt. Miller asked if there was any chance of his changing his mind to purge change my mind. I don't believe I am in contempt. I had no contemptuous feeling or intent.

TODAY'S BIBLE THOUGHT

He that humbled himself shall be exalted.—Luke 14:11. We have known men to fail because of their egotism. We have met countless great financiers, self-made men, and all were humble and approachable. Its hard to get past their secretaries, but exalted men are in our experience without exception, most approachable and simple men.

Krider-Varland Nuptials Saturday

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Curtis Varland of Morris, Ill. and Mrs. Wayne John Krider of Greencastle are the parents of the bridegroom.

Preceding the ceremony, read by the Rev. Hugo C. Montanus, the maid-of-honor, Miss Sherlene Funk of Covington, Kentucky, sang "O Perfect Love" by Burleigh and the "Mason Hall Song."

Tall pedestal baskets of white gladioli and white asters decorated the church. Baskets of the same kind of flowers flanked by palms and ferns decorated the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a portrait gown of imported French point de sprite over tissue faille, fashioned with a demure open neckline, scalloped sleeves of embroidered lace, fitted bodice with scalloped lace trim and a quaint bouffant skirt with a cascade of tiers of embroidered tulle edged in matching lace, which fell into soft folds and swept into a chapel train. Her full circular finger tip veil of nylon illusion import was held in place by a Dior Plateau of embroidered tulle adorned with clusters of tiny seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her corsage was a white orchid. Mrs. Krider's gown was a powder blue polished cotton, Princess style, with a graceful full skirt. Her accessories also matched her gown and she wore a white orchid.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Anton Nelson of Morris, wore a deep sky blue lace dress fashioned with a full skirt and an open neckline. ## Higher Learning Requires Money

WASHINGTON, (UP)—A lot of dads are fretting this season, when they should have done a lot of hard thinking long ago.

Plain fact is that it takes a considerable stack of long green to finance a boy or girl in higher learning.

About the least a pop can figure on to send one kid through college is $1,200 a year, and that doesn't include dough for any smokes or cokes. If the young hanker for the Ivy League or some of the fancy women's colleges, the old man can figure on digging up from $2,500 to $3,000 a student or more—depending on the tastes in furs and tweeds.

The financial advantage to a college education is this: Statistics show that the college grad in a lifetime earns an average of $265,000. A high school grad can plan on only $165,000. Some illiterates run above these averages, but striking oil or holding a winning ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes depends mostly on luck.

Some bright kids get help from scholarships, but there aren't enough to go around. And most of them don't pay the whole tab. And girls don't make very good varsity quarterbacks. Also scholarships for playing of the bassoon and the flute or limited to the best of class in bassoons and flutes.

Of course there's the where-there-is-a-will-there-is-a-way school. A lot of self-made men and women have helped to father their own education. Pushing a broom or washing a dish in exchange for a bowl of soup and a small steak never did anybody in.

I'm not exactly self-made, but I never wash another dish. I claim I'll be a couple of furlongs ahead of most housewives. I washed dishes in the University of Iowa Hospital, which owned a lot of crockery.

Today, there are about 700,000 college students who have outside jobs.

It isn't easy to work and study, but a diploma seems to mean something.

Today, there is also an installment or pay-as-you-go plan to educate youngsters. Education can be bought just like you finance a house or a car or a vacuum cleaner.

If pop wears a hunted-animal look it is understandable. Since 1940, not too long back, the overall cost of one year of college has doubled-tuitions, keep and the like.

Even if dad pays by the less painful monthly plan, he still has to pay for everything. Everything runs into a multitude of things like books, fancy clothes and money to take the gal friend to a flicker.

Clothes didn't mean much in my day, except for maybe rented formal gear a couple of times a year. Most days we wore work shoes and baggy trousers. A crease in the pants attracted stares.

But that was a long time back.

MARRIED SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Mr. and Mrs. Nolan W. Masters

Miss Diana Shoemaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shoemaker, of Greencastle, and Nolan W. Masters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Masters, Connersville, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, August 25, at 3:30 in the First Christian Church.

Bridal music was rendered by Mrs. A. L. Meredith, at the organ.

The Rev. Keith sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the conclusion of the ceremony.

The Rev. William Keith read the vows of the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with bouquets of white gladioli and palm ferns and lighted by three candelabra. The pews were marked with satin bows and candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length gown with a full skirt and chapel train. The waistline was accented by a tiered peplum of lace. The bodice was fashioned with a high neckline and long pointed sleeves of imported French embroidered lace over satin. Her veil of silk illusion net was fastened to a satin halo. She carried a bouquet of Amazon lilies and stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert Jones, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Suzanne Glore, Miss Anne Sunkel, of Greencastle, and Miss Dorothea Lambeth, of Tupelo, Miss. They wore identical ballerina length gowns of French blue crystaletle fashioned with gathered elbow length sleeves, full skirts and pointed waistlines. They wore blue velvet hats with short veils. The matron of honor carried a bouquet of white carnations, caladium leaves and ivy and the bridesmaids' bouquets were of pink carnations, caladium leaves and ivy.

Octavio Gomez de Molina, of Indianapolis, served as best man. Ushers were Ralph and Robert Masters, brothers of the bridegroom, and Robert Jones.

Mrs. Shoemaker was attired in a pale blue silk dress with navy accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige linen sheath dress with brown accessories. Their corsages were of pink sweetheart roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Assisting were Misses Phyllis Bramer, Barbara Caldwell, of Indianapolis, and Miss Gail Levy, of Chicago. The table was decorated with ivy and candelabra and centered with the three tiered wedding cake.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Cincinnati. For traveling, the bride chose a light blue dress sheath dress and white linen jacket and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Masters will reside at 3605 Balsam, Apartment 21, in Indianapolis.

Each will be seniors at Butler University this fall. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. She attended Mexico City College this summer and is a member of Delta Gamma sorority and of McAllister Board.

BOAR SELECTION TIPS

Late summer is a good time for Indiana swine producers to select that new boar for the breeding herd, according to Vernon Bell, extension swine specialist at Purdue University.

Bell says that fairs are an ideal place for farmers to look over different boars and to decide on the type they wish to buy.

"Only a purebred boar should be selected," the specialist believes. He adds, however, that the breed of the boar is not as important as the individual qualities of the boar. Good boars may be located through county or state breed associations.

A fast-growing, well muscled, rugged and vigorous hog should be chosen. The boar should be from a production tested herd relative to litter size, feed efficiency and gaining ability. And, the boar should have sound feet and legs and come from a disease-free herd.

If a young boar is selected, he should be at least eight to nine months old at breeding time and weigh 250 pounds or more.

Hand breeding is recommended when using a young boar by placing the sow with the boar for service. "Don't let the boar run with the sow herd," advises Bell. Young boars should be limited to one service per day and about 15-20 sows per season the first year. And, these young boars can be used on old sows with the use of a breeding crate.

After a new boar is brought to the farm, he should be isolated from the rest of the herd for 30 days. He should not be permitted to become overfat. However, his ration should be increased about two to three weeks before breeding time since he is apt to lose weight during the breeding season.

"Borrowing a boar is borrowing trouble, particularly from a disease standpoint," cautions Bell.

Now put yourself in Mrs. Keen's place and figure out the right play as she did, without looking at the South and West hands.

put the ace on it. Killing a King is the prime purpose of an ace—or so the old whist adage goes. There are times, however, when this temptation must be resisted. Today's hand is a good example.

Mrs. Keen used the rule of eleven to guide her into the right defensive play. The opening lead was the seven of spades. Anxious to finesse hearts as soon as possible, Mr. Abel tried to win with the king in dummy.

Now put yourself in Mrs. Keen's place and figure out the right play as she did, without looking at the South and West hands.

"FOURTH HIGHEST?"

Is Mr. Meek's lead a "fourth highest?" Well, let's use the rule of eleven. He led the seven spot. Even from 11 leaves four, which means there are four spades higher than the seven outside of Mr. Meek's hand. But you can see five spades higher than the seven in the East hand and dummy. So the opening lead cannot be a fourth best.

Is it a singleton? If so, then Mr. Abel has five spades and with that many of the top suit he surely would have bid spades instead of merely bidding and rebidding hearts.

Mrs. Keen deduced, as you undoubtedly did, that the seven of spades was the top of a worthless two or three card holding. She hoped for the doubleton holding. She also hoped Mr. Meek could gain the lead before all of his trumps were extracted.

PLAYS LOW

So at trick one she did not play the ace of spades. She played the nine to try to encourage her partner to lead the suit again, if he got in.

At trick two Mr. Abel finesse the queen of hearts. Mr. Meek won with the king and returned the trey of spades. Having seen the deuce fall from the closed hand on the first trick, Mrs. Keen knew this was her partner's lowest, and therefore last, spade. She won with the ace and led back a spade. Mr. Meek ruffing. The ace of clubs was then cashed for the setting trick.

Note that if Mrs. Keen had played the ace of spades at trick one, Mr. Meek would not have the opportunity of ruffing a third round of the suit. After he won with the king of hearts, he would have no way to reach his partner's hand.

MARRIED IN QUAIN OLD CHURCH

Doris Calvert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Calvert of Putnam county and Don Harbison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Harbison of Greene township were married Sunday evening, July 29, at the Portland Mills church.

The rustic surroundings of the church made an ideal setting for the candle-light occasion. The altar of the sanctuary was banked with palms, candelabra and a large basket of white gladioli. White satin bows on the pews and candles placed in the windows added to the beauty of the room.

With the familiar strains of Wagner's "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin the officiating minister, the groom and the bride entered and assembled at their appointed places. The bridesmaids and matron of honor dressed in the formal gowns of lavender and dorchid taffeta, respectively, with matching colonial bouquet of fuji mums, the groom and his attendants in white dinner jackets as well as the little ring bearer and the flower girls, petite in their orchid floor-length gowns created a colorful picture as they waited by the altar.

The bride appeared radiant in white. Her gown of imported chantilly lace, tulle and satin was fashioned with a softly moulded lace over satin bodice, lace collar and sleeves that came to points over the hands. A pleated front panel of tulle fell from the waistline while three tiers of chantilly lace over satin extending into a chapel train completed the back of the skirt. Iridescent sequins trimmed the points of the collar and neckline. The fingertip veil was attached to a cap of lace and seed pearls. She wore pearl earrings and carried a bouquet of white fuji mums centered with a white orchid.

At the bride neared the waiting group on the arm of her father she was met by the groom. Together they came forward to repeat their vows. At the conclusion of the ceremony, when the bride and groom knelt for their blessing, Mr. Coleman sang "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception was held on the church lawn for 140 guests. Wedding cake, punch, mints and nuts were served by Mrs. Robert Zerr, Mrs. Charles Calvert of Waveland, Mrs. Randall Grimes of Roachdale, Mrs. Gene Unger of Greencastle and Miss Joanne Harbison of Ann Arbor, Mich.

At the present time the young couple are living in an apartment in the home of Mrs. Hattie Unger of Greencastle, R. R.

THE STRANGE CASE OF THE FIRST ORCHID

SAVANNAH, Tenn. (UP)—Carolyn Eiseman got her first orchid from a boy she had never seen before and would probably never see again. It happened like this:

Miss Eiseman was visiting in Memphis, riding in an automobile on a busy street. She said two boys in an outdoor sign painter's truck started to pass.

One boy looked at Miss Eiseman. Then the truck slowed down and came close to the Eiseman car.

"The boy handed a box through the window," she said. Inside was an orchid corsage. "My first," she said.

HORSE RIDER ABSOLVED OF DRUNK DRIVING CHARGE

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP)—The judge of the nearby Fair Oaks judicial district has ruled that riding a horse while intoxicated isn't drunk driving. Judge Joseph J. Diestel said after examination of the law he was convinced it referred only to driving a motor vehicle. He allowed Oliver Armitage, Sacramento, to plead guilty to a lesser charge. Armitage was arrested by the Highway Patrol after he and his horse were involved in a collision with an auto.

Who, Me?

Yes, You Reddy Kilowatt...
You're Everybody's Favorite!

● Boy, is Reddy Kilowatt ever the popular guy! But, come to think of it, who could get along without dependable electric service these days! Imagine an industrial plant without plenty of electric power to turn the wheels and keep production rolling. Think of modern retail stores and restaurants without air conditioning, refrigeration and adequate lighting to display and sell! Farm work without electric helpers is just as impossible to think of, from dairying to crop drying. And, of course, none of us can imagine our homes without time and labor-saving electric helpers "pitching in" all over the house.

Because Reddy is so popular, he's being called on to serve more and more. Every class of customer—without exception—is calling on him for more and more kilowatt-hours, every year. That's why Public Service Company continues building ahead—to make sure the 70 Indiana counties in which we serve will continue to be power-full! It's the only way to be positive those we serve can always have the electricity they need to continue increasing their production and prosperity!
